Master in Leavenworth Coal Case Says That Much is Due the Government.

Eugene Hagan, master in the suit of the United States against the Leavenworth Coal company has filed his report with the clerk of the United States circuit court. The case will come up before Judge Hagan, Dec. 8, when a judgment will be made and a judgment rendered in accordance with Mr. Hagan's report.

The case is of long standing and the point at issue was decided against the company a year ago.

Mr. Hagan was appointed master with the duty of taking evidence and conducting an investigation to determine the amount due the government from the company. His report places the sum at $70,000.

The case is an interesting one and is the outgrowth of the action of Thomas Ewing, Jr., who asked congress for permission to dig for coal on the military reservation at Leavenworth. In 1893 congress granted the permission and awarded the company 20 acres of land in one corner of the reservation. There was only one reservation and that was, that if the company succeeded in finding coal, the government was to receive one-fourth of one per cent royalty.

The company struck a shaft to the depth of 720 feet and found one of the best veins of coal in the west. A great deal of coal was taken out, but for some reason the company forgot its obligation to the government and did not pay its royalties. Very valuable machinery has been put in, cost alone being $380,000. Mr. Hagan found that the company has mined 28,000,000 bushels of coal.

The company has taken out coal under the Missouri river, and $30,000 of the amount awarded for royalties on that. The court may decide that the company is not liable for the coal mined anywhere else than under the military reservation.

A short time ago people living across the river in Missouri claimed that the company was digging fuel under their cornfields, and started to make an investigation, but the company refused to allow them to go into the shaft, so the Missourians have not yet been able to secure evidence upon which to base a suit.

NAMELY, THE STATE PRINTERSHIP.

Both the Leading Candidates Have "Headquarters Opened"—List of the Dark Horses—Other Political Matters.

There are already enough Republican candidates for state printer to make an interesting fight when the legislature convenes.

As it now stands Topeka has the two leading candidates, Major J. K. Hudson of the Capital, and George W. Crane.

Major Hudson's interests are being watched by Captain P. H. Coney, who is his recognized manager and he makes his headquarters in the Copeland corridors.

George W. Crane has opened a regular office at the Copeland, which is in charge of George Higgins when Mr. Crane himself is not on duty.

The other recognized candidates are Editor Ed P. Greer of the Winfield Courier; Editor E. W. Hoch of the Marion Record; Editor A. L. Spangler of the Hutchinson News; and Editor A. J. Felt of the Atchison Champion.

John S. Gilmore of Fredonia, editor of the Wilson County Citizen, is mentioned as a possible dark horse. Tom McNeal, of the Breeze, has been mentioned in this connection, but he says he will not under any circumstances be a candidate.

W. Y. Morgan, of the Emporia Gazette, the young man who is prominent in the Sons of Veterans, is said to have the office fever and may possibly develop into a candidate.

The state printer fight is not yet fully developed, but it is growing.

SENATE OFFICERS.

Candidates for the Offices of Sergeant-at-Arms and Chaplain.

Since the announcement of the numerous applications for the position of secretary of the state senate, there is much speculation on who will be sergeant-at-arms of the senate, a job which naturally goes to some Populist. This place pays $5 a day during the session, and mileage, when the officer is on duty serving papers at the direction of the president of the senate.

Frank Forrest, the "boy orator," wanted to be sergeant-at-arms until he got a newspaper job at Concordia, and he is now considered out of the race.

David Shull, who was the sergeant-at-arms now has a job in the penitentiary, and is not considered an applicant. Leroy Dick, who was sergeant-at-arms of the senate position, and Ben C. Rich, who was chief clerk of the Dunsmore house, has been mentioned in this connection.

V. L. Kildison the Populist chaplain of the last senate has moved out of the state and a new man will have to be engaged to do the praying for the upper body of the legislature.

The chaplain must be elected, but Lieutenant Governor-elect Troutman has received several letters from preachers who want him to appoint them to that position which will keep the wolf from some parsonage door during the winter.

WAS AN AWFUL FIGHT.

Dr. McCassey's Opinion of His Asylum Administration.

Dr. McCassey said today to a STATE JOURNAL reporter, speaking of his resignation as superintendent of the state insane asylum:

"I only wanted to hold my position until the Pope goes out. I am still there, and will be there until I know who my successor is."

"This has been an awful fight," he continued, "one of the worst ever seen in the state, and I am really glad that it is settled at last. I have tried the best I could to do my duty, and that is all I can say."

"It is a terribly hard thing on me. I am a professional man, and my profession is the means by which I earn a livelihood. I am a young man, and this cannot but hurt me sorely."

"What will you do, Dr. McCassey, when you leave the asylum?" asked the reporter.

"The JOURNAL says I am going to start a private asylum in Topeka, and I guess that must be so. I won't have Captain Wait as trustee when I do; you can count on that."

WORTHLESS "LAWING."

The Kind of Cases That Sometimes Keeps Judge Johnson Busy.

A. L. Ferris is suing Ed. B. Jones in the Shawnee county circuit court for $10,000 for malicious prosecution.

Jones had Ferris arrested for stealing some fruit jars, and when it was found that there was no evidence upon which to hold him he was released, and Jones then had him arrested for stealing a hen and chickens, but he was again discharged. He then brought suit for damages against Jones. Both parties live south of the city, and Ferris lived on a farm belonging to Jones.

Lawyer Hib Case was cross examining Ferris last evening and attempting to prove that he was a worthless fellow and had been attempting to bleed Jones. He enumerated nearly every article he possessed under the fire of questions.

"Well, what else have you?" asked Mr. Case.

"I have forty-five chickens," replied Jones.

"What else have you?"

"I have two hens with sixteen chickens."

"Is that all?"

"No, I almost forgot. I have two roosters."

"What else have you?"

"I guess that is all." Then Ferris pondered a while, scratching his head. "Hold on," he replied suddenly, "I have four dogs."

Judge, jury and every one in the court room burst out laughing, and it was several minutes before the bailiff could secure quiet.

O'CONNELL COMES BACK

The Former Well Known Topeka Grocer in Court

WITH TWO BIG DAMAGE SUITS

For Imprisonment in the Shawnee County Jail—He Wants $32,180 from Charles Wolff and the Swift Packing Company.

T. J. O'Connell, who will be remembered as proprietor of the Capital grocery store three years ago, is trying to recover the sum of $32,180 in the United States circuit court.

When O'Connell's store was closed early in the summer of '92, he was arrested at the instance of the Chas. Wolff Packing company of Topeka and the Swift Packing company of Kansas City.

He was taken before District Judge John Guthrie in chambers in proceedings upon execution for contempt of court, and ordered imprisoned in the county jail. The contempt was held to be in the refusal of O'Connell to pay over money to satisfy the judgments secured by the two companies, the court ruling that he was able to pay the amount of the judgments.

O'Connell went to jail early in June and for eighteen days he occupied a cell. Then a writ of habeas corpus was taken out and the Kansas supreme court ordered him released on the ground that there were irregularities in the writ under which he was confined in jail.

Soon after his release Mr. O'Connell left Topeka and has not been seen here since until yesterday, but his attorneys brought two suits for damages in the United States court for false imprisonment. The suits are each for $16,090, divided as follows:

Damages to character, feelings and health.....$15,000

Attorney's fee.....1,000

$5 per day for 18 days imprisonment.....90

$10,000

The first suit is against The Wolff Packing company, J. M. Wilkerson, who was then sheriff, D. N. Burdge, J. A. Hickey and F. M. Russell, his bondsmen, and S. B. Isehart, the attorney for Wolff.

The second suit is against Swift & Co., J. M. Wilkerson and J. R. Larimer, who was the attorney for Swift.

The case was called in the United States circuit court today.

The time was spent most enjoyably with conversation and music and an elaborate luncheon was served.

Inquiry is made as to what has become of North Topeka's board of trade that started out some months ago with such a flourish of trumpets to get the Burlington railroad and Missouri river freight rates. The meetings were largely attended and there was great interest, even enthusiasm, but everything was turned over to a committee, made up principally of people outside of the organization, and nothing has been heard of these matters since.

UNITED HEADQUARTERS.

Missionary Societies of the Christian Church All in Topeka Now.

The three missionary societies of the Christian church in Kansas have formed a union and have established general headquarters in Topeka, with office in the City Real Estate building.

The societies represented are the Woman's board, the State Sunday School board and the Kansas Board of Missions, and by having one general office at a common point they can do much better work. The general office will be in charge of Mrs. Helen Moses of the Woman's board; Miss Eva Lemert of the Kansas board and Miss Lucy Lemert of the Sunday school board.

Holiday Gatherings.

Gathering together under one roof a comprehensive stock of Christmas Goods from which you can make your selections means that in one way and another we must draw upon the productions of nearly every habitable corner of the earth.

If the points of interest are Italy and Germany and France, and Ireland and Japan and China and Austria and England and America, we must reach out for them.

Buying where the best is produced, we must then have the best of each kind for you. Buying largely, we must buy lowest. Selling at a low rate of profit makes the goods move quickly, insuring lowest prices.

We have gathered of quite all classes and grades of merchandise that have merit, so that the wants of every purse may be supplied here. Now, while our stock is at its best, is it not well to buy? Come here this next week and see for yourself what all this means.

Have your thoughts yet turned to the Holidays—to Christmas? Have you asked yourself what shall I get as Christmas presents and where shall I get them?

Don't let the thought worry you a moment, we've done that part for you. For months past our buyers have been scouring the world's leading markets for the most pleasing in Holiday Goods. They've been collecting the choicest and best from this city and that, from this country and abroad—and now they're all in.

A large portion of the store is given up to them.

The Holiday profusion beats all the past in variety and quality and carries with it a price advantage that greatly favors you. We're more by twice perhaps than we've ever had before, and the selection is better by far. The experience of each previous year enables us to more ably select those things which your wishes and desires call for.

This year we have made bolder departures from the old way than ever. With the various new departments come floods of a new variety—and the rarest and prettiest that's to be found.

But a hint to-day is to where the Holiday Goods are!
